Creighton Women’s Health Specialist Dr. Maureen Fleming and Dr. Teri Speed, former surgeon and author of “The Incurables,” to highlight Heart and Soul Red Dress Dinner and Seminar April 30

Dr. Maureen Fleming, M.D. is a specialist in the management and treatment of Creighton Women's Health Center and associate professor of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Creighton University School of Medicine. She will give a presentation titled “A History of Women’s Health.”

Her co-presenter will be Teri Spock, M.D., from Omaha, Fla., a former surgeon, now national speaker and author. Her presentation is titled “Pass the Sash,” also the title of the soon-to-be-published sequel to her critically-acclaimed book, The Incurables. Dr. Spock is an extraordinary woman of purpose and concern for her Omaha audience, providing us with a few tips of the Incurables for each Red Dress attendee.

The medical presentations will earn two and one-half (2.5) continuing education units for all nursing, social work, and other health professionals in attendance.

The Heart and Soul Red Dress event will host 600 women – one of the most diverse gatherings of women, ethnically and socioeconomically – as to be found in Nebraska. There will be dozens of African American senior citizen members of the “Red Hat Society,” a delegation of Latino women from Fremont, Neb., who are participants in the CHIRP-sponsored Heart Healthy Education, Activities, Resources and Training (SHIRT) program, Native Americans from four different Nations, and many women of all races, cultures, and creed from the greater Omaha/Council Bluffs area.

The Heart and Soul series always seeks to host representatives from every part of our society – newcomers and veterans of centuries-old lineage, the wealthy and the poor, the learned and the learning.

“Any woman who was red, under a red carpet, and aimed to be accompanied with complimentary hair and makeup-up consultations, chair-side manages and glamorous photo-voters by professional photographers, a heart healthy gourmet meal and entertainment that range from the sacred to the secular, to host representatives from every part of our society – newcomers and veterans of centuries-old lineage, the wealthy and the poor, the learned and the learning.
